

1. Pomodoro time- AppFX
 - i. Minimalistic design
 - ii. Easy to use
 1. Big visual countdown instead of numbers
 - iii. Customizable
 1. Can change the work and break time
 2. Can set # of pomos before break
 3. Asks for goal for # of pomos
 4. Give notification when work time ends and break time starts
 5. Give option to keep device awake while using the app
 - iv. Pause button (bad)

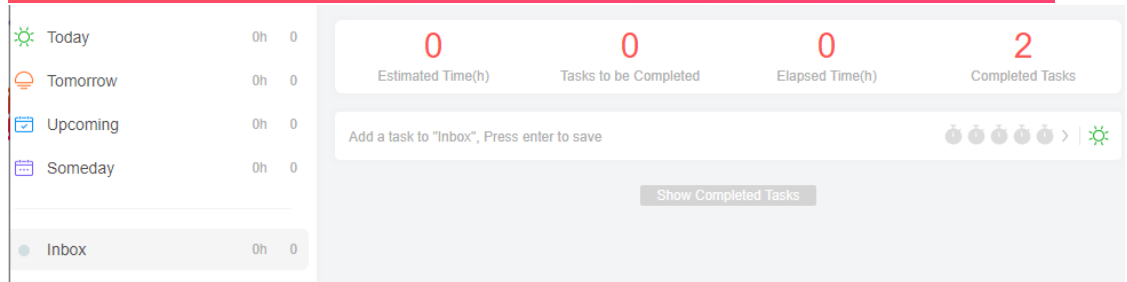

2. <https://pomodoro-tracker.com/>

- a.
 - i. Tells you about what the pomodoro technique is, its benefits, tips on how to use,
 - ii. Customize times for work and break
 - iii. Default set to not auto start pomodoros but auto start breaks
 - iv. Give options for notification
 1. Different sounds and adjust the volume
 - v. Has dark theme
 - vi. Can label
 - vii. Task list
 1. Allows you to edit, delete, split into smaller tasks, move to tomorrow, mark done, or merge with other tasks
 2. Can categorize/ label tasks
 - viii. Signing up lets you keep track of stats (how many pomos you have completed today, this week, this month)
 - ix. Stop button restarts the timer rather than pause
3. Google chrome extension focus to-do a.

b.

c. Simple design

d. Can set up tasks for today, tomorrow, upcoming, someday

i. Shows five pomo buttons that you can click for how many you want to set and can set more than 5

ii. Lets you choose a calendar date for the tasks

e. Top shows total estimated time in hours for all tasks in list and number of tasks and how much time has elapsed in hours and the number of completed tasks

f. There's a report for

i. Total focus time

ii. Focus time of this week

iii. Focus time of today

iv. Total completed tasks

v. Total completed tasks this week

vi. Tasks completed today

- Empathy

- I usually have a list of tasks I need to do but I don't really think about how long each will take so the timer would be useful for holding me accountable to complete a task within a certain time. I would use it for splitting up the homework I have for each class and it would help me not get distracted while I study
- Someone who isn't a student could use the timer for having a period of just focusing on one task like practicing an instrument or learning a dance

